

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

In the preparation of this Catalogue great pains have been taken to secure accurate information. In a few cases it has been impossible to trace old students ; but in many cases those whose addresses have been known have failed to reply to repeated requests, and their records have been made up from what data could be secured from other sources.

The names have been arranged by classes ; that is to say, the name of a matriculate is put under the year in which his class graduated. Without doubt, some will be surprised to see themselves ranked with those whom they have never known, or of whom, perhaps, they have never heard ; but, on the whole, this method of arrangement seemed to be the best.

For about twenty years after the opening of the institution the division into classes was very loosely observed. Apparently, students were not ranked according to any definite system. No catalogues were published until 1852. Lists of students were from time to time printed in the Managers' Reports, but irregularly ; and these lists were not always divided into classes ; while from 1843 to 1852, with a single exception, no lists whatever were published. These facts have made it exceedingly difficult to place some of the matriculates, especially those who did not complete the course. Records have been made up, therefore, from grade books, ledgers, etc.

Previous to 1877, the only degree conferred upon undergraduates was that of Bachelor of Arts ; in 1877 the degree of Bachelor of Science was added, and in 1887 the degree of Bachelor of Engineering. Since 1891, however, the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science have been the only ones conferred.

It remains for the editor to acknowledge the great assistance given him by the active members of the Catalogue Committee, two of whom have most kindly read the proof-sheets. Acknowledgments are also due to a number of the Alumni who have given information of much value ; among these, Robert Bowne, '42, of New York City, and Mark Brooke, '96, of Radnor, Pa., should be specially mentioned. Thanks are also due to Dr. Edward T. Tucker, of New Bedford, Mass., and Gilbert Cope, of West Chester, Pa., for information most kindly furnished.

SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF HAVERFORD COLLEGE.

Haverford College, opened in 1833, was founded by members of the Society of Friends, who wished to establish an institution conducted in accordance with their religious opinions, and offering advantages "for instruction in the higher branches of learning, combined with a religious care over the morals and manners of the students."

The full course of study was to occupy not less than four years, and was to include "English Literature, Mathematics, Natural History, Natural, Intellectual and Moral Philosophy, the Ancient Languages and Ancient Literature." Opportunities for instruction in the principal modern languages were also to be afforded.

It will be seen that, though the modesty or special views of those interested prevented them from calling the institution a college, collegiate instruction was given from the start. This is also shown by the State documents, which rank the institution as one giving collegiate instruction.

In 1856 the managers obtained a charter, giving Haverford the name and full powers of a college. Students who had received diplomas from Haverford School were subsequently granted the degree of Bachelor of Arts, upon application and payment of fees.

The experience of Haverford College has not been unlike that of other denominational colleges. There have been in its history periods of great depression, when, had it not been for the unselfish support of a few noble-hearted persons, the college would have been closed. Indeed, at one time the institution was temporarily suspended, from 1845 to 1848. Re-opened in the latter year under more liberal regulations, it has continued to offer its advantages to wider circles of young men.

From time to time Haverford has received liberal gifts and bequests; without these it would have been impossible for it to have been carried on. It was not, however, until 1897, when the corporation came into possession of the munificent bequest of Jacob P. Jones, of Philadelphia, amounting to about a million of dollars, that the college was placed upon a permanent, substantial pecuniary foundation.

Haverford aims in its religious influence to inculcate the simple truths of Christianity.

NOTE.—For a full account of the history of the college see “History of Haverford College, 1832–92.” Philadelphia, 1892.
